

Something About Vicky

by Steve - March 22, 2012

She faces every day with a strong and loving spirit Those that are the lucky are the one's she holds within it

Adverse to most adversity such strength she always shows I watch with some amazement how she rarely uses, "No's"

Whatever others throw her she replies a solid, "Yes" to help them in their troubles what 'er might be their mess

She is stronger than a fence post often tougher than the rest But, this next round of hurdles will put her to the test

We've been here for a while now since Fall 2003
We will not waste precious time on this we both agree

The miracle of healing lives within her to the core Not just in modern medicine but her belief in God and more

Her task as other's angel is just something that she bears She uses this experience to help others learn their prayers

From beginning of the knowing she has never asked, "Why me"
"Why not me" was her mantra though I did not agree

With no way to know the chapters that remain within her book I know she'll Live each moment without a second look

The nothing that I did to be blessed within her Life I cherish every waking calling her my Lovely wife
